I bespeak your indulgence. Man is a creature of society. I came to Raleigh, it is true, without being invited, about the 14th of April last. I am fond of good company, but the ladies, old and young, for some reason, turned their backs on me—they gave me the cold shoulder. I tried for several days to behave the best I knew how; put on my best-starched clothes, and tried to obtain a friendly glance from them. I yearned for them; but they did not notice me. There seemed to be a slight prejudice. I am fond of children, very, and wanted to

When I was a boy, I heard a sermon from this text: "Mind not high things, but associate with the lowly." It made a deep impression on my mind. My father also taught me never to be ashamed of my poor relations. We were poor ourselves, and I was never ashamed to pick pockets, and robbing, and then roasting never speak evil of a person behind his back; pay the woodsawyer and washerwoman, and always give your name. These are the first instructions of my youth. I have carried them to follow.

"I hope you will recind your resolution to black my face, tar and feather me, and to have me consigned to the gallies. I frequently heard of persons who have experienced these recreations in the South, I have a prejudice against them. Consider to what you are considering. I have been in the Society. Reflect. In the eloquent language of another, 'we are going home.' I may be at the 'old homestead' when you come, and I would not look with my face blacked and my ears consigned to the gallies. It would sound badly abroad, and might hinder immigration. I have an extensive acquaintance among the members of Congress, and the good friends of the President, whom I assisted to elect by reporting his anti-slavery speeches in Tennessee. If your fathers or friends need my aid, I will be glad to give it. I have no doubts, perhaps I can aid them. I have also a large acquaintance among the dry goods jobbers and grocers of New York, and, as I have done before, I will introduce such persons to your purchase goods on time." By lynching me you will lose my valuable services. Kindly yours

The President all the time sat biting his lips, wondering what the devil Tilden was driving at. Tilden continued: "There, too, Mr. President, is the poor, sad, wretched man who a sweet morsel of shell under his tongue, and who, with a repulsive object to look at, is waiting for the President here interferred, and taking the spectacles from his nose, quietly observed: "That there was one thing to be said in favor of the oyster, and that was know when to shut up."

Tilden looked slightly confused at the President, left the room, leaving him at the desk to stew. Tilden has now the same opinion of President Johnson that the world had of him last fall—he is a "hoorish taitor," who knows more about "a goose than an oyster."—Albany Knickerbocker.

Heiskill, who was asleep in his room, was aroused by the noise, and called for Mr. Heiskill, when Lieut. Keith fired upon the Doctor, the ball taking effect and producing almost instant death. Mr. Heiskill and his wife then made their appearance, when another shot was fired, which struck Mrs. Heiskill in the hand and cut off two of her fingers.

were injured, one very dangerously. The people were Dunkards, and apparently very worthy, but were in destitute circumstances, and apparently all sick. The people in the vicinity took charge of them, furnished them with money and provisions, and gave Slink's wife a decent funeral.—Indianapolis Journal, 16th.

A Boston correspondent of the Rochester (N. Y.) Democrat writes thus about the tomb of Daniel Webster in Marshfield: "When the son of Fletcher Webster was buried the other day, his grandfather's coffin was again opened, and his remains found in a perfect state of preservation. There is a secret about it; but those features will never be seen again."

"The very ignorant" gudgeon of the Journal swallowed this naked hook with avidity. He thought he discovered in the correspondence a wonderfully ingenious trick on the part of Secretary Seward for checking the "radicals." After dealing with a gusto the substance of the trans-proposed reform by the present Congress he can retrench the ordinary expenditures of the Government a million of dollars annually.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The Times' Washington special says: The members of the Board of Corporators of the National Military and Naval Asylum for the relief of the totally disabled officers and men of the United States, met to-day at the Smithsonian Institution, when it was again found that there was no quorum, only twenty-three persons present, and the meeting adjourned.

On motion of Surgeon General Barnes, Secretary Stanton was elected Chairman, and Edward Davis Recording Secretary.

Secretary Stanton then announced the object of the meeting, and the names of those present.

General Barnes then said that in addition to those present, he had heard from twenty-nine other corporations, and that he was at present, among whom was W. B. Astor.

General Butler then addressed the meeting, alluding to the former attempt at obtaining a quorum, and suggesting propositions for action. Under the circumstances it was impossible, yet he moved to adjourn over, and wait for the arrival of other members, and he, therefore, submitted a resolution which, after setting forth its impracticability, a legal number of the corporations recommend that the meeting proceed to a provisional organization, and that a committee of seven be appointed to memorialize Congress to legalize these provisional actions, and to legislate such legislation, by reducing the number of corporations and otherwise as will enable the project to be carried out according to the design of the act.

This was supported by Chief Justice Chase, who suggested that the resolutions be amended by adding that this committee proceed to make by-laws, rules and regulations, and submit the same to an adjourned meeting of the corporations, to be held subsequent to the action of Congress, proposed to be asked for on the subject adopted.

Hon. E. S. Tuley submitted a resolution requiring the committee thus appointed to memorialize Congress for a stated appropriation in aid of the work, instead of relying on the charity of the public. The act would be soon provided, so it could not be commenced until $50,000 had been subscribed and paid.

Gen. Butler said that the funds provided by the act for the maintenance of the asylum, arising from fines by court-martial, forfeiture of pay for desertion, unexpired prize money, etc., already amounted to between $100,000 and $200,000.

After further discussion, Mr. Tuley's resolution was adopted.

The names of the committee under Gen. Butler's resolution were: Gen. Butler, H. J. Raymond, Geo. Smith, Mr. Stuart, ex-Gov. Clark, Admiral Davis, Gen. Barnes, Gen. Meade and Gen. Grant.

On motion of Mr. Raymond, the committee were instructed to petition Congress for a repeal of the restrictions of the act of Congress in the 6th section.

On motion of Gen. Butler, it was agreed that the meeting adjourn until called together by the committee.

The gentleman who to-day exhibited much earnestness in behalf of the project, and it will doubtless prove a success.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The war in South America has commenced, and the Herald's correspondent has just received the following details of the recent battle at Latay, giving the sanguinary character which the struggle has assumed.

On the 17th of August the allied forces, 8,500 strong, under Flores and Paez, encountered 3,000 Paraguayans under Major Duran, on the right bank of the Uruguay river. The Paraguayans were unprovided with artillery, and outnumbered two to one.

Summons were sent them to surrender, but they declined. For an hour and a half the allies with the three assaults of the allies with a desperate struggle. Their leader, Duarte, and 1200 of his troops fell into the hands of the Brazilians, and all their stores were captured. The allies stated their loss at 2,000 men.

Another detachment of Paraguayans, 2000 strong, on the other side of the river, was prevented by Brazilian gunboats from reinforcing Duarte and his troops, who were severely hemmed in at Uruguay by an immensely superior force.

As a set off against these successes, an engagement in which the Brazilians, Paraguayans and the Brazilian fleet, in which the latter was severely handled. Following the capture of the Paraguayans, during our war, the Paraguayans had constructed batteries along the Parana river to prevent the return of the fleet. In running past these batteries the Paraguayans were damaged. Further battles of an equally important character were daily expected.
